

King & Water Streets

About one half of the buildings within the original Town Plat are more than 100 years old – some more than 200! Walk the Town and look for the distinctive beige plaques are placed on historically significant homes (privately owned- please respect) and commercial buildings throughout the town. Each plaque contains a brief history of the building and has been placed by the St. Andrews Civic Trust.

Stroll Time: 29 min + exploring time!

TIP: Ministers Island + Fundy Aquarium + Kingsbrae Garden = Explore St. Andrews Pass – 3 days of admissions all at once!

The Ross Memorial Museum is housed in a red brick Georgian mansion built in 1824, one of St. Andrews' many historic and architecturally significant buildings. Once the residence of Loyalist Harris Hatch, the Museum is now furnished with the stunning furniture and decorative arts collection of Henry Phipps Ross and Sarah Juliette Ross. Admission: Donation

In addition to having a 27-acre award winning garden and restaurant, Kingsbrae Garden features an extensive collection of sculptures, an art gallery, and art studio. Like the garden changing in various blooms, the artwork also rotates keeping the visitor experience fresh throughout the season. Kingsbrae is also home to various animals including alpacas, goats, peacocks, rabbits, and more. Whether you are a lover of nature, horticulture, culinary, or art, Kingsbrae has something to offer the whole family. Admission required for garden not restaurant.

Built in 1840, this Classical-Revival was in session until the last case was heard by the Court of Queen's Bench in 2016, making it the oldest serving courthouse in Canada. It was declared a National Historic Site in 1983. Still the home to the St. Andrews Civic Trust and Charlotte County Archives, tours are offered throughout the summer in conjunction with the Gaol (Jail).

Check out the complete Historic Water Street that is a part of our community heart and identity. That is why it is the Great Places in Canada 2016 Winner Great Street. It houses well-frequented restaurants, shops, galleries, and other excursion opportunities. Wide, accessible sidewalks looking into the windows of all downtown shops.

This five-block area is THE place to get town services, enjoy food and art, visit with neighbours, sit beside (or go out on) the water, and appreciate both the ambiance and activity of a present-day town in an 1800's setting.

Sherrif Andrews House Elisha Andrews, High Sheriff of Charlotte County and son of the Loyalist, Reverend Samuel Andrews, built this lovely home in 1820 to reflect his position within the community. The interior layout tells of the "upstairs/downstairs" world of separate quarters for servants in the attic. Admission: Donation
